

I completed my teaching degree in 2013 at The University of Cumbria. Since then, I have taught in the Cheshire area and Cledford Primary School in Middlewich. I have taught different age groups but have recently settled in KS2.

I enjoy the challenges and experiences that each teaching day brings. Nothing is more gratifying than seeing a child progress and understand something that they previously didn't know. PE and art are a couple of my favorite subjects as well as solving problems on computers. I recently built my own PC – this was more than a challenge.

Outside of school, I enjoy getting to the gym when I can, eating at different restaurants and spending time with my family watching films and playing games.
