What is terrorism?

Terrorism is the use of violence and frightening people to try and change the way a country is run.

Terrorists want to change the way governments and politicians behave.

They do not do this by voting or by trying to convince people of their arguments.

They do it by scaring people into behaving the way the terrorists want. It is a type of bullying.

What is extremism?

Many terrorists have extreme views and ideas.

They do not agree with the beliefs of other people or listen to the ideas that other people have if they are different to their own.

People from all types of backgrounds, countries, religions and beliefs can have extreme views about many things.

People that have extreme views do not respect the views of other people.

They are not tolerant.
